Judge halts both redistricting plans

Legislative district lines deemed unconstitutional

BY DAVE BOUCHER
NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

A Kentucky judge ruled Tuesday that the statewide redistricting plans approved in the House and Senate are both unconstitutional. Franklin Circuit Court Judge Phillip Shepherd decided the new districts were illegal for several reasons: In both the House and Senate, the number of people in the districts was not close enough to the "ideal" district size established in federal law. In the House, Shepherd ruled legislators could have divided fewer counties between districts, a constitutional provision of redistricting.

Rep. Ben Waide, R-Madisonville, said at a recent Republican gathering in Hopkinsville that both of these claims had solid legal standing. Following the decision, Waide added the ruling could allow for districts that better serve Kentuckians.

Waide has been outspoken about his opposition to the redistricting plan, as has Rep. Myron Dossett, R-Pembroke. The GOP pair were placed in the same district under the Democrat-controlled House plan, and have been fighting ever since to have the changes annulled.

With Shepherd's decision, district lines will revert to where they were at the beginning of the current session of the General Assembly, Waide said. That means Waide must again file to run for election in the 10th District. He filed in the district before the changes were signed into law, then filed in the 9th District after the approved plan shifted the 10th District to the Louisville area.

"This will be $600 I've paid," Waide said, explaining that a candidate must pay $200 each time he or she files for office. Finding appropriate legislative districts is more important than the money though, he noted.

Legislators can appeal Shepherd's decision to the Kentucky Supreme Court, Waide said.

Program takes bite out of crime

BY BENJAMIN JOUBERT

Burglaries in northern Christian County have decreased recently and local officials say the Neighborhood Watch program is the reason.

During the third community meeting at Crofton Pentecostal Church, Capt. Chris Miller, of the Christian County Sheriff's Department said calls about suspicious activity are up 40 to 50 percent and that has led to a reduction in crime.

"I attribute that to nothing more than the neighborhood watch program," Miller said. "It's because you guys have gotten involved and are letting us know more information."

Attorney challenges Pendleton for seat

BY DAVE BOUCHER
NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

A local attorney wants to unseat longtime legislator Sen. Joey Pendleton, D-Hopkinsville, in the November general elections.

Whitney Westerfield, an assistant Commonwealth's Attorney in Christian County, announced Tuesday he has filed to run for the District 3 Senate seat. He's considered running for office for several years, he said, and he thought now was the time to enter the political arena.

"There's only so much you can do when you're sitting on the sideline," Westerfield said in a phone interview Tuesday.

Registering as a Republican, Westerfield said his ideals are conservative. He wants to "protect the lives of unborn children," according to a release, as well as reduce the size of government and address the amount of governmental regulations in place.

Recent attempts by Gov. Steve Beshear to expand gambling in the state should be quashed, in Westerfield's opinion. Westerfield admits the plan could provide more revenue for the state,

Wife pleads not guilty to murder

BY NICK TABOR

The woman accused of killing her husband Friday night on Fidelio Road appeared before a judge via video camera on Monday afternoon and pleaded not guilty.

Jessie L. Goslyn, 25, is charged with murder. Her husband, Vincent Goslyn, 28, died sometime after 8 p.m. Friday of several gunshot wounds, said a spokesman from the Christian County Sheriff's Department.

Christian District Judge Jim Adams refused to lower Jessie Goslyn's $1 million bond. He also ruled she couldn't receive bond credit because she might pose a danger to other people. Often when a defendant's family can't afford a jail bond, the defendant gets credit toward the bond amount for every day spent in jail.

Before her arraignment, Goslyn sat in a red plastic chair in a multi-purpose room at the jail. Five other women in orange jail jumpsuits sat around her, and a group of male inmates sat behind them.

Adams' face appeared on a small TV screen, facing the inmates. He read them their rights then called Goslyn's name first.

She rose slowly and approached a wooden lectern at the room's center. She stood behind it with her arms folded. Adams told her she

Second robbery suspect caught

BY DAVID SNOW
FOR THE NEW ERA

Authorities have arrested a second suspect in connection to the armed robbery of a Hopkinsville car dealership, according to Oak Grove police officials.

Oak Grove Officer Mike Havens said the suspect, Henry Jerome Brown, 24, was being held at the Dickson, Tenn., police department.

Havens, who captured the first of four suspects, Joseph Marshall Brown, said the department received news of the second capture Tuesday morning.

Both men are accused of robbing AC Automotive in Hopkinsville on Jan. 30 and then leading police on a chase down Interstate 24.

The suspects allegedly ditched their car on I-24 and shot at police before disappearing into a wood line, just outside of Clarksville, Tenn.

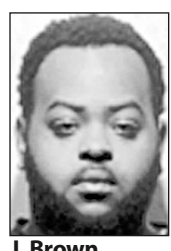

"To my understanding, the second suspect was arrested out of Dickson," Havens said. "I really can't give too much further due to the ongoing investigation. He is captured, and he will be transported back to the state of Kentucky pending extradition issues."

Henry Brown has charges of first-degree robbery and parole violation and another general warrant pending against him in Hopkinsville. It is not known if he is related to the other captured suspect.

Police are still looking for two suspects: Christopher J. Walker and Justin L. Horstead.

Thank You

When God takes a loved one away - the best part remains in our hearts.

We sincerely thank you for all the many prayers, cards, phone calls, flowers, visits and other expressions of sympathy shown to share in our sorrow. Your heartfelt expressions of love helped to ease our pain. Thank you to Rev. M.O. Fort, Virginia Street Baptist Church and Rev. Donald Sprague and all ministers who attended. Gamble Funeral Home for a job well done. We would especially like to thank the ICU nurses at JSMC and Dr. Lisa Radix and Dr. Henry Covington for being so compassionate and understanding.

Again, your kindness and thoughtfulness is deeply appreciated and will always be remembered.

The family of William E. Sprague, Jr.

Heartfelt Thanks

We, the family of Charles "Kent" West and Shelia West Northington, would like to thank: Rosewood Health Care Center, Bowling Green, Bradford Heights, JSMC Emergency room staff, Mount Olive and Rev. Milner, Herndon Bronaugh Baptist Church, Gordonville Baptist Church and Rev. Collazo, Moores Baptist Church and Rev. Kendrick and Gamble Funeral Home and our many friends and family.

The many acts of kindness, cards, flowers, food and prayers were all deeply appreciated.

West and Northington Families

Our Sincere Thanks

We would like to express our gratitude to our many friends and relatives for all the prayers, loving support, phone calls, visits, cards, flowers, donated Bibles and other expressions of sympathy during the illness and recent loss of our beloved Mother.

We also want to thank Bro. Mark Engler for the beautiful eulogy; Donnie McGregor for Mother's favorite song at the funeral; all of Mother's Gospel Temple Church family for their prayers and support, and the Ladies' Auxiliary for the food following the service; Morgan's Funeral Home for their help at our time of loss; and the nurses and staff at Covington's Convalescent Center for their kindness to Mother during her stay there. May God bless you all.

MONICA K. SMITH | KENTUCKY NEW ERA

A buggy is seen Thursday on U.S. 41.

Ky. Senate unanimously approves buggy provision

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Amish men from across Kentucky arrived at the Capitol on Tuesday to watch the Senate approve a bill that would allow them to use reflective tape on their horse-drawn buggies rather than bright orange triangular signs that some object to on religious grounds.

Western Kentucky resident Jacob Gingerich was one of 18 Amish men in broad-brimmed black hats who watched from the gallery as the Senate voted 38-0 to pass the bill. They rode on buses to Frankfort from Mayfield, Leitchfield and Auburn to watch the legislature step into a long legal fight that has resulted in jail time for some who have refused to display the slow-moving vehicle signs.

Gingerich, who spent nearly two weeks in jail for refusing to display the orange triangle on his buggy, said the measure respects the religious rights of the Amish while improving highway safety.

"The tape is more visible at nighttime than the triangles," he said.

The bill still has to make its way through the House, where some similar bills are already pending. House Speaker Greg Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, spoke favorably about the proposal Tuesday afternoon.

Logan Gordon Renner

Logan Gordon Renner, 13, of Souldern, Oxfordshire, UK, passed away on January 30, 2012 at a hospital in Oxford, United Kingdom, surrounded by his family. Logan, the much-loved first child of Lieutenant Colonel Stephen Logan Renner and Jennifer Gordon Renner, was born October 5, 1998 at Andrews Air Force Base, Maryland. He was a student at Kingham Hill School, Chipping Norton, Oxfordshire.

Logan accepted Jesus as his savior at the age of 8 and was a member of First Baptist Church, Montgomery, Alabama. He was a member of Boy Scout Troop 220 and a fine musician. Logan loved playing with friends and cousins, as well as time alone with his books and Legos.

Logan will be missed by his sisters, Mary Grace and Anna, and his brother Paul. Logan is also survived by grandparents Jack and Molly Gordon of Hopkinsville, Kentucky, and Gene and Ginny Renner of Somerset, Kentucky; aunts Jill Gordon (David) Vaughan and Jennifer Renner (Mark) Kelly, uncle Jeff (Lana) Renner, cousins Jackson Vaughan and Ella Vaughan, and Andrew Renner; and adopted grandparents Tom and Elsie Pitts. Having lived on three continents, Logan had friends all over the world who also will miss his kindness and his happy smile.

The following memorial services have been scheduled: at East Somerset Baptist Church on Thursday, February 9 at 12:00 noon eastern time, Captain (Chaplain) Todd Dickman officiating; and at First Baptist Church, Montgomery, AL on Sunday, February 12 at 3:00 pm, central time, Reverend Jay Wolf officiating. A private burial service will be held at Mill Springs National Cemetery. Pulaski Funeral Home, Somerset, Kentucky, is in charge of local arrangements. In lieu of flowers the family suggests that memorial donations be made to the Fisher House, a medical program to assist military families in times of need (www.fisherhouse.org) or the Kentucky Organ Donor Association (www.kyorgandonor.org).

Logan's parents have issued the following statement: Our Logan, kind and generous always, has provided the gift of life and sight for eight British young people. His sweet heart has been transplanted to another child, and seven other families have received life-changing good news because of him. Thank you for your love and prayers.

Oak Grove aims to amend synthetic drug ordinance

BY DAVID SNOW
FOR THE NEW ERA

The Oak Grove City Council wants to amend the city's synthetic drug ordinance, which was passed in December but ultimately halted by a judge after an Oak Grove business complained that the ordinance was unconstitutional.

The amended ordinance, which passed by a 5-0 vote on first reading Tuesday, struck a number of chemical compounds from the list of illegal substances, including salvia divinorum and methyl-based compounds.

City Attorney James Holland said the changes were made after doing more research on case law to make the ordinance more enforceable.

The amended ordinance also reduced penalties, making possession of a synthetic drug a Class B misdemeanor instead of a Class A misdemeanor.

Language in the ordinance that forbids possessing or selling any substance that "when inhaled, or otherwise ingested," produces "intoxication, stupefaction, giddiness, paralysis, irrational behavior ...," was not changed.

The second reading of the amended ordinance will be at the council's next meeting, at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 21.

Head of Health and Family Services resigns

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Health and Family Services Secretary Janie Miller announced Tuesday that she is leaving her job to pursue other opportunities at month's end.

She had overseen the state's social service agency since Gov. Steve Beshear's first term began in late 2007.

Through the deep recession that sent about one in every 10 Kentucky workers to the unemployment lines.

Beshear said Miller has done "extraordinary work in an especially difficult time" that saw Kentuckians stung by the economic slump and increasingly turning for help to the social services agency.

"Secretary Miller found ways to meet those needs despite the challenges of a very lean budget," Beshear said. "Her efforts to provide health insurance for children, to implement wellness strategies, and move more than half a million Kentuckians to a managed care health system in less than a year were enormous tasks."

Deputy Secretary Eric Friedlander, who has been with the agency since 1985, will serve as interim secretary.

Under Miller's direction, the agency enrolled more than 60,000 children in the Kentucky Children's Health Insurance Program and Medicaid.

She also oversaw the transition of 560,000 Medicaid recipients to a managed care program in a move projected to save taxpayers $1.3 billion over three years, including $375 million in the General Fund.

"I have been blessed with a long and fulfilling career in public service," Miller said. "During these last four years during one of the country's worst economic recessions, we have continued to move forward by looking to the future, with creativity and focus on alignment, integration and partnership across many sectors to improve the lives of vulnerable populations."

She concluded that it has been a privilege serving alongside "some of the most dedicated, committed individuals in state government."

Military affairs director hired

FROM NEW ERA STAFF REPORTS

The Christian County Chamber of Commerce announced the hiring of Kensley McLellan as its new director of military affairs on Tuesday.

McLellan has a master's and bachelor's degree from the University of Tennessee with majors in marketing and advertising and human resources management. She is married to Maj. Scott McLellan, who serves with the 4th Brigade Combat Team, 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault).

"We are so pleased that Kensley has accepted our offer to work at the chamber and to lead the military affairs program of work," said Mark Stevens, chair of the military affairs committee. "With her knowledge of Fort Campbell, enthusiasm, education and initiative, she was the right choice at the right time for our program of work."

McLellan will start her new job Feb. 20. "I am so excited to work at an outstanding organization and to work with such established, successful volunteers and community leaders," McLellan said. "I don't take lightly this assignment and will work tirelessly to uphold the standards of excellence at the Military Affairs Committee and the Christian County Chamber of Commerce. I look forward to continuing the hard work of recruiting more military families to call Christian County their home while strengthening the relationship between the wonderful communities of Christian County and Fort Campbell."

Special judge to oversee detective's assault case

BY NICK TABOR

NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

Kent Roberts, the detective accused of assaulting a younger man while off duty, couldn't reach an agreement with a prosecutor to settle his case. It appears he'll stand trial instead, said his attorney, Eric Bearden.

Christian District Judge Arnold Lynch, who has overseen Roberts' case so far, said he wants a judge from outside Christian County to take over. Because Roberts works for the Christian County Sheriff's Department, any judge in this county would have a conflict of interest, Lynch said.

Bearden said a semi-retired judge who routinely substitutes in cases like this will likely take on the job.

Roberts and his co-defendant, Sidney Faulkner, each face a charge of misdemeanor assault. Roberts is also charged with official misconduct. He is still suspended from the sheriff's department without pay, Bearden said.

Roberts is either engaged or married to Faulkner's mother,

Bearden said. Court records state Faulkner and Roberts lived at the same address on South Main Street as of November.

On Nov. 26, Roberts allegedly used his police cruiser to drive Faulkner to Robert Parrish's home. Faulkner had a tussle with Parrish earlier in the day, and he claims Parrish approached the car and assaulted him. Roberts got "caught in the fray," Faulkner said.

Parrish claims Roberts and Faulkner exited the car and hit him in the head.

Parrish also faces criminal charges related to this incident.

Roberts and Faulkner appeared in Lynch's courtroom Monday afternoon. Lynch tentatively scheduled a court hearing for Feb. 20. The new judge will attend, and the attorneys will likely schedule a trial date, said Logan County Attorney Joseph Ross, who is handling the case as a special prosecutor.

Hopkinsville receives favorable audit

BY DAVE BOUCHER

NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

The financial standing for the city of Hopkinsville at the end of the last fiscal year is satisfactory, according to an audit conducted by a local accounting firm.

John DeAngelis, an accountant with York, Neel & Co. of Hopkinsville, told Hopkinsville City Council fund balances were adequate. "In pretty much all ways, I'm satisfied with what I've seen," DeAngelis told the council.

It was a routine report for Robert Martin, chief financial officer for the city. He said there were no surprises, and he was pleased with the result.

"We're always happy with a clean audit," Martin said.

The city's net assets were more than its debts as of June 30, 2011, by approximately $26.9 million, according to the 85-page report. That is $875,000 more than 2010, the report states.

The assets are broken into two different groups: governmental activities and business-type activities. Hopkinsville showed a net gain of almost $1 million in its governmental activities fund from 2010 to 2011. However, business-type activities assets dropped from about $4 million to $3.98 million.

The business-type activities group includes entities that are owned by the city but run like a private business, the report explains. Tie Breaker Family Aquatic Center and the Ground Maintenance Department fall into this category, and both accrued more expenses in 2011 than 2010.

Almost half of the city's revenue came from a payroll tax in 2011, the report states. Property taxes accounted for the second-most amount of revenue.

DeAngelis warned the council not to cite an audit as its

ACCIDENT

Ambulance called after Main Street wreck

A woman went to the hospital for back pain after she slammed on the brakes of her vehicle and another driver rear-ended the vehicle, Hopkinsville police said.

Peggy J. Baldwin, 51, was treated and released, according to a spokeswoman at Jennie Stuart Medical Center.

Around 11:35 a.m., Baldwin was driving north on Main Street, preparing to turn onto Glass Avenue. She braked abruptly, and the driver behind her, Celestia Gilbert, 28, rear-ended Baldwin's Ford minivan, according to a Hopkinsville police report.

Baldwin complained of back pain and requested an ambulance to take her to Jennie Stuart, according to the report.

Man arrested on rape charge

BY BENJAMIN JOUBERT

NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

A Mannington man was arrested Sunday after a woman told police he raped her, according to a Kentucky State Police news release.

Around 2 a.m. Sunday, the woman said she woke to find Gene R. Cotton, 47, who was staying at her house, in her bed. He was allegedly touching her inappropriately. When Cotton noticed the woman was awake, he allegedly held her down and raped her, the release states.

A similar incident happened three to four weeks ago, she told police.

Cotton was arrested and charged with first-degree rape and two counts of first-degree sexual abuse. Cotton allegedly told police that he had consensual sex with the woman.

A police report states Cotton is married, but separated. Court records list Cotton's place of residence as Nortonville while the arrest warrant says he's from Mannington.

He remained at Christian County Jail on Tuesday afternoon on a $25,000 bond.

Woman charged with abandoning child

A Hopkinsville woman left a child in a grocery store Sunday, police reported.

Latonya F. Poole, 46, now faces a charge of endangering the welfare of a minor, a Class A misdemeanor that carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail.

Hopkinsville police received a call about a child left alone at the IGA store on Canton Pike, according to the report. After they found the child, an emergency dispatcher called Poole. Police took the child home.

When officers discovered Poole had eight other children in her care, they decided to cite her instead of arresting her, according to the report. The report lists her occupation as "adult care provider."

Missing Tenn. man added to registry

A Clarksville, Tenn., man who went missing in late January is now in the National Missing and Unidentified Persons System, Clarksville police announced.

Brandon D. Rushing, 25, had been staying with his fiancée in Guthrie. His fiancée said he received some threats before he disappeared around Jan. 23, according to police.

Rushing is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs about 200 pounds. He has brown eyes, black hair and a short beard, according to the release. He was last seen driving a maroon Chevy Suburban with a Tennessee license plate

Coast Guard moving ship in bridge collapse

The U.S. Coast Guard is moving the Delta Mariner — the cargo ship that crashed into Eggner's Ferry Bridge over Kentucky Lake on Jan. 26 — to a safe harbor on the Tennessee River.

Additionally, technicians placed laser markers on the bridge. The lasers will allow officials to detect movement down to a fraction of an inch, according to a Kentucky Department of Transportation press release. Officials are concerned that three piers supporting the bridge may have been damaged in the wreck. Engineers continue to await a report from divers who conducted an underwater exam of the three bridge piers last week.

To move the ship, salvage workers first had to cut it free from subsurface bridge debris. They will continue removing portions of the bridge from the bow of the ship once the ship is safely secured a mile from its current location, the release said.

"The salvage operations are proceeding as planned and it is a significant milestone that the ship has now been relocated downriver and clear of the Eggner's Ferry Bridge," said Commanding Officer Claudia Gelzer, commanding officer of Coast Guard Marine Safety Unit Paducah.

faced a murder charge, meaning she could receive the death penalty if convicted. He asked whether she could afford a private attorney, and after hearing she couldn't, he said she would get a public defender. Finally, he scheduled a preliminary hearing for Feb. 15. On that day, a law enforcement officer will need to explain the evidence against Goslyn, and a judge will decide whether to send her case to a grand jury. Goslyn only spoke to say she understood the charges against her. Afterward, two jail employees led her back toward her cell. Goslyn has a co-defendant, Jerred T. Long, 24, whom officials in Colorado arrested late Saturday night or early Sunday morning. Investigators believe Long participated in Vincent Goslyn's murder, then drove more than 1,300 miles to Grand Junction, Colo., the site of his arrest. Authorities will transfer him to Kentucky. Sheriff's department spokesman Chris Miller said on Sunday the circumstances of Long's relationship to Jessie Goslyn were unclear. WSMV-TV in Nashville, Tenn., reported Long was once stationed at Fort Campbell as well. The sheriff's department released its initial report of the homicide on Monday. Deputies believe Vincent Goslyn's wounds came from a handgun, it states. Walter Ferguson, who lives on Fidelio Road, near the spot where Vincent Goslyn died, called around 8:22 p.m. to report finding the body on the roadside.

Vincent Goslyn was a quartermaster and chemical equipment repairer, assigned to 4th Battalion, 101st Aviation Regiment, 159th Combat Aviation Brigade, 101st Airborne Division, according to a Fort Campbell press release. Goslyn joined the Army in February 2005 and arrived at Fort Campbell in June 2008, the release said. Global War on Terrorism Service Medal, Korean Defense Service Medal, Noncommissioned Officer Professional Development Ribbon, Army Service Ribbon, Overseas Service Ribbon and North Atlantic Treaty Organization Medal. Goslyn's death remains under investigation by local authorities, along with the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command, the release said. # PLANS: Ruling nixes both redistricting plans

Dossett was equally as pleased with Shepherd's decision, but equally as confident as Waide that there will be an appeal. "Right now, at least I have my mailbox back in my district," Dossett said. Although he said he had heard whispers of a new redistricting plan last week, Dossett did not know any details about any House plan. This is uncharted waters for most members of the legislature, he said, and no one is sure which way the case will go. For the time being, legislators should be focused on Kentuckians and not partisan redistricting games, Dossett said. "It's not about us. It's about making sure the citizens of the state are treated fairly." The deadline to file for the 2012 election cycle was extended to Friday following Shepherd's decision. The primary election is May 22, with the general election on Nov. 6.

ATTORNEY: Whitney Westerfield announces bid for state Senate

but he thinks it will take money away from other worthwhile endeavors. "(Money will) be taken from the coffers of the churches and the non-profits," Westerfield said. Slight changes to House Bill 463 — a plan championed by state Rep. John Tilley, D-Hopkinsville, that aims to reduce drug crimes in the commonwealth — and closer monitoring of the Cabinet for Health and Family Services are also some of the many issues he pledged to bring up on the campaign trail. As an assistant prosecutor for the past five years, Westerfield said he has firsthand experience with many of the issues and challenges people face in the community. A lifelong resident of the area — apart from time spent at college and law school — Westerfield also thinks his connection to the community helps him understand what people want from an elected official. Although he doesn't have anything personal against Pendleton, Westerfield said he does not agree with the state senator's voting record. He did not mention any particular vote cast by Pendleton, but pledged to vote far more conservatively than the Democratic cattle farmer.

In a normal election year, Westerfield's registration to run would have been too late. However, thanks to an injunction ordered by a Kentucky judge concerning legislative redistricting, the filing deadline was extended. Westerfield said that only allowed him and his wife Amanda more time to pray about his decision to run; he had the paperwork ready to file by the original Jan. 31 deadline, he said. He considered challenging Tilley for his seat in the Kentucky House, but decided against it when fellow Republican Max Sturdivant expressed interest in the race. Pendleton has also already announced this will be his final campaign, a signal for Westerfield that the time for new ideas is now. He's not sure of his chances; he knows that current Christian County Magistrate Tom Jones and defense attorney Ben Fletcher have unsuccessfully tried to unseat Pendleton. But Pendleton has never gone up against "a Whitney Westerfield" in a race before, Westerfield said. The primary election will be May 22, followed by the general election on Nov. 6.

PROGRAM: Calls about suspicious activity leads to decrease in crime

Pete Craddock, who has been a leader of the program since it began in November, said the program is to make people aware of what suspicious activity looks like and teach them not to hesitate in reporting it. "It all got started when we got tired of the hooligans," Craddock said. "Everybody was tired of the hooligans." Close to 40 people — many dressed in neon yellow shirts — met in the meeting hall of the church. The shirts represent members of the Community Emergency Response Team. On Friday and Saturday afternoon, CERT volunteers received 12 hours of training in areas such as light search and rescue, fire, extraction and limited first aid. During a storm last week, CERT volunteers traversed the neighborhood looking for downed power lines, fallen trees and other damage. At the beginning of Tuesday's meeting, certificates were passed out to volunteers who helped during the storm. Gregory Owen said he is a volunteer with CERT because he wants to "take care of our town and community." Right now, nine counties in the Pennyrile region are participating in the Neighborhood Watch program. Miller hopes that with more communities joining, crime will continue to drop in the area. The meeting also touched on community issues and the importance of adult education. Gary Dawson, director of adult education at Hopkinsville Community College, gave a presentation on the benefits of a General Education Development test and how it can contribute to the economy. A GED shows that an individual has the basic skills of a high school graduate. In another part of the meeting, an announcement was made that Christian County will participate in a 2,000-mile yard sale the last weekend in June. The yard sale will stretch from Michigan to Miami on U.S. Highway 41. At the end of the meeting, citizens raised concerns about loose dogs, speeding cars and potholes. Overall, Craddock said he wants the Neighborhood Watch program to continue growing and the crime rate to continue dropping. "There's not anything wrong with standing up for what you believe in and your rights," Craddock said. "You've got God-given rights for your protection."

University students wave signs Tuesday protesting Kentucky Gov. Steve Beshear's budget cuts to the state's universities at the Capitol rotunda in Frankfort.

College students rally against budget cuts

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Hundreds of students from Kentucky's eight public universities rallied in the Capitol Rotunda on Tuesday to protest proposed budget cuts in higher education.

Student body presidents from the universities and state lawmakers spoke to a boisterous crowd that Michah Fielden, of the University of Kentucky, chairman of the Board of Student Body Presidents, described as the largest student rally in Frankfort "in modern times."

Gov. Steve Beshear's budget calls for a reduction of 6.4 percent in state funding for postsecondary education, which is less than the proposed cuts of 8.5 percent for most state agencies.

Without more support from the state, Fielden said, universities will have to shift an even greater part of the burden for education to students, who have seen large increases in tuition in recent years.

Santorum seizes Minnesota, Missouri

WASHINGTON (AP) — A resurgent Rick Santorum won Minnesota's Republican caucuses with ease Tuesday night, relegating front-runner Mitt Romney to a distant third-place finish that raised fresh questions about his ability to attract ardent conservatives at the core of the GOP political base.

Santorum was victorious, as well, in a nonbinding Missouri primary that was worth bragging rights but no delegates.

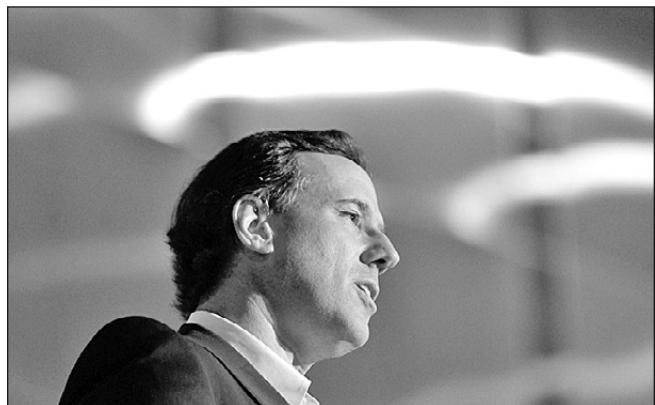

Colorado held caucuses, too. The first few hundred votes tallied trended Santorum's way, but the count lagged well behind Minnesota's.

Santorum triumphed in the third state on the ballot Tuesday, winning a little-contested Missouri primary that was worth bragging rights but no delegates. They will be chosen beginning in caucuses expected to draw far more competition from Romney, Gingrich and Paul next month.

Returns from 25 percent of Minnesota's precincts showed Santorum with 44 percent support, Paul with 27 percent and Romney — who won the state in his first try for the nomination four years ago — with 17 percent. Former House Speaker Newt Gingrich trailed with 11 percent.

The first few hundred votes counted in Colorado trended Santorum's way, as well, but the count there lagged well behind Minnesota's.

more conservative in both states since then under the influence of tea party activists.

There were 37 Republican National Convention delegates at stake in Minnesota and 33 more in Colorado.

Santorum, a former Pennsylvania senator, campaigned aggressively in all three states, seeking a breakthrough to revitalize a campaign that has struggled since his narrow first-place finish in the Iowa caucuses a month ago.

Paul, a Texas lawmaker, has yet to win a primary or caucus.

He arrived at a caucus site in Coon Rapids, Minn., in early evening to shake hands with early arrivers, and had to squeeze his way through a crowd of autograph seekers.

Romney began the day the leader in the delegate chase, with 101 of the 1,144 needed to capture the nomination at the Republican National Convention this summer in Tampa.

Gingrich had 32, Santorum 17 and Paul nine.

Taken together, the number of delegates at stake

Tuesday was the largest one-day total yet in the Republican race to pick a rival for President Barack Obama.

Even so, the campaigning was a pale comparison to the Iowa caucuses or primaries last month in New Hampshire, South Carolina and Florida.

Television advertising was sparse; neither Colorado nor Minnesota hosted a candidates' debate, and there was relatively little campaigning by the contenders themselves until the past few days.

The same was true in last weekend's Nevada caucuses, which Romney won on the heels of a Florida primary victory days earlier.

The same pattern holds in Maine, where caucuses finish on Saturday.

Not until primaries in Michigan and Arizona on Feb. 28 is the campaign likely to regain the intensity that characterized the first few weeks of the year.

Then it roars back to life with a 10-state Super Tuesday on March 6 with 416 convention delegates at stake.

4 recent thefts reported

The Hopkinsville police and Christian County sheriff's departments released information Monday on four recent reports of felony thefts.

Denice D. Tyler, of Hopkinsville, reported a break-in at an East First Street house on Sunday night. Between 5 and 8 p.m., a burglar evidently used a large rock or brick to smash a window and get inside. An IBM laptop and a Kodak camera, worth $750 total, were taken, according to a Hopkinsville police report.

Vicki Colwell, of Macedonia Road in Crofton, said a man took a check from her house, made it out to himself for $260, forged a signature and cashed it. She gave the sheriff's department information on the person she suspects, according to a report.

James M. Lear, of Mason Lane Pembroke, reported that someone stole a bottle of Dilaudid from his home between Jan. 24 and Jan. 26.

Transmission, cable box, medications reported stolen

The front door to a Princeton Road home was kicked in Friday and a cable box stolen from the residence, according to a Christian County Sheriff's Department report. James J. Prince told deputies that he left his home around 4 p.m. and when he returned six hours later, the door lock was on the ground.

The only thing missing from the house was the cable box, Prince told deputies.

In another burglary report, a Russellville Road man stated that a friend stole his medication from a bedroom Monday morning. Christopher W. Pepper said that, around 8:05 a.m., he was in the bathroom and noticed a female friend exiting his bedroom, according to a sheriff's report. When she saw him, she left the home in a hurry, Pepper told deputies.

He later noticed that many of his prescription medications were missing, according to the report. A suspect is listed in the report.

An Apex-Orange Grove Road man told deputies that someone broke into his home Sunday morning and rummaged through medications, but stole nothing.

Jurild T. Stanley said he returned home around 1 p.m. and found a window on his back door shattered, according to a sheriff's report. Medications in the kitchen and the medicine cabinet in the bathroom had been moved around, but nothing else seemed disturbed, Stanley told deputies. No suspects are listed in the report.

Another burglary was reported to the sheriff's department Monday morning. Nearly $2,000 in car parts were stolen from recycling company on Kentucky 1682 over the weekend. An employee with Transtar Recycling told deputies that between Friday afternoon and Monday morning someone stole four tires on aluminum rims and a transmission from a 2001 Chevrolet 2500 PK, according to the report. No suspects are listed in the report.

In a Hopkinsville police report, someone allegedly kicked a side door open to an East Second Street home Sunday morning and attempted to assault one of the residents.

Chante M. Moore told police that a man kicked open a door to their home around 6:30 a.m. and entered with a sharp instrument. The man was trying to attack her sister, Moore told police. The report does not say whether the sister was injured but the only charge listed is first-degree burglary. A suspect is listed in the report.

New Era Staff Writer Nick Tabor contributed to these reports.

Project Graduation gearing up for another year

Donations are being accepted for this year's Hopkinsville Project Graduation. The program funds an all-night party for outgoing high school seniors. The party will be at the James E. Bruce Convention Center.

Donations for the program can be mailed to Project Graduation, P.O. Box 291, Hopkinsville, KY 42241. For more information, call Diane Pyle at 270-887-7053.

Aaron McNeil House, Feeding America team up

Aaron McNeil House has partnered with Feeding America, a national hunger relief group, for an evening food pantry program at its facility.

The program will be offered from 4 to 7 p.m. every Thursday and the fourth Saturday of each month starting Feb. 25. Photo IDs are required for anyone older than 18. Social security cards should be supplied for every member of a household. Proof of income must also be brought.

HCC reaching out to African-Americans

Hopkinsville Community College will have its second Super Sunday event this Sunday. The event, which is offered at the 15 other schools in the Kentucky Community and Technical College System, is an effort to reach out to African-American students in the community through partnerships with local churches.

The event will begin with HCC staff members attending services at area churches, including Virginia Street Baptist Church, Cedar Grove Baptist Church, St. Bethlehem Baptist Church and Lane Tabernacle CME.

The college will later offer a college fair on campus starting at 2:30 p.m. The fair will include informational booths as well as a complimentary lunch.

KSP picks Dodge Challenger for 2012 car raffle

The Kentucky State Police are featuring the 2012 Dodge Challenger R/T Classic for this year's Trooper Island Raffle. The car, a modern interpretation of an American muscle car, has a 5.7-liter, 372-horsepower V8 engine.

Tickets for the raffle are $10 apiece. To purchase a ticket, contact any Kentucky state trooper, commercial vehicle enforcement officer or any of the 16 KSP posts throughout the state. Only 20,000 tickets will be sold.

The winner will be chosen Aug. 26 at the Kentucky State Fair. Ticket holders don't have to be present to win.

Local author to have signing at the library

Teresa Medeiros, a local author of romance novels, will have a book signing and a question and answer session starting at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Hopkinsville-Christian County Public Library. Medeiros will also give a speech on the writing process.

Edgar Cayce seminar set for March 16 and 17

The 20th Annual Edgar Cayce Hometown Seminar will be offered March 16 and 17 at the Pennyroyal Area Museum. The seminar will feature presentations on Cayce's life and work as well as a tour of local sites. Call the museum at 270-887-4270 for more information.

Bill would allow death certificates for stillborn children

Rep. Myron Dossett, R-Pembroke, has filed a bill during the 2012 General Assembly that would allow parents of stillborn children to apply for death certificates with the state.

Under Dossett's proposal, any couple whose child fits the definition of "early fetal death," which means a spontaneous fetal death prior to 20 weeks of gestation, could apply to the state for a death certificate. The bill would not require the Cabinet for Health and Family Services, which is responsible for issuing death and birth certificates, to investigate early fetal deaths.

The legislation would also stipulate that any records related to early fetal deaths or the certificate would be kept private.

In other council business:

■ Council unanimously approved three ordinances on first reading that "give teeth" to already established rules concerning excessive garbage, trash and weeds on a property. Councilman Paul Henson said they speed up the city's ability to cite people with tall grass and weeds in their yards.

■ Councilwoman Marby Schlegel said she wanted to clarify accusations that she championed an incentive that allowed a downtown business to install new carpet with public money. Schlegel said she was not on the council when the measure in question was passed.

■ Riley-Presley Way, near Pyle Lane and Millbrooke Drive, was accepted into the city on unanimous vote.

■ Council agreed to increase its match of a grant received by the Hopkinsville Fire Department to $51,780, as well as transferring $19,000 to the Boys & Girls Club to help cover recent repairs.

■ The $4,700 budget needed to start a new city-run chess program was approved.

■ Scott Lewis was appointed to the Hopkinsville Beautification Commission.

■ Council voted to go into closed session at 6:58 p.m. They entered open session again at 7:07 p.m., where no further action was taken.

KENTUCKY BRIEF

Murray State student charged, explosives found

MURRAY, Ky. (AP) — Murray State University Police have charged a student with having explosives in his dormitory room.

David Matthew Wilson was released on a cash bond after being charged with first-degree wanton endangerment, according to The Paducah Sun. The 18-year-old Wilson was released to his father, who lives in Florissant, Mo., and he must stay off the campus.

An affidavit by campus police stated Wilson consented to a search of his room on Jan. 31. Police stated they found black powder mixed with ammonium nitrate, a pipe and a fuse.

University spokeswoman Catherine Sivills said the dangerous materials were removed from campus.

Wilson is scheduled to appear on Feb. 15 in Calloway District Court. His attorney, Ricky A. Lamkin, of Murray, declined comment.

Weight loss challenge issued to legislators

BY DENNIS O'NEIL
NEW ERA FEATURE WRITER

State lawmakers are being asked to tighten their belts, and for once, the request is meant literally.

Sen. Joey Pendleton, D-Hopkinsville, and Rep. Tim Moore, R-Elizabethtown, have issued a challenge to legislators to lose weight during the remainder of the Kentucky General Assembly's session. The challenge is a competition to see which legislator can lose the most.

Both Pendleton and Moore serve on the Childhood Obesity Taskforce. The challenge came as a response to statistics indicating poor health and obesity among Kentuckians.

"Kentucky is leading the nation in a variety of unhealthy statistics, mainly obesity," Pendleton said. "We are ranked first in the nation for childhood obesity, an alarming issue that will continue to plague the citizens of Kentucky if it is not resolved."

Traci Meyer, the state wellness specialist of the personnel cabinet, recorded all participating legislators' weights and body measurements at the start of the challenge on Jan. 5. She also provided legislators with tools to track their progress and record the data. There will be a final weigh-in at the conclusion of the challenge in mid-April.

Meyer also made recommendations for healthier eating habits and physical activity. Group exercises like walking, jogging and stretching are being organized at the state capitol during session weeks.

Participation was encouraged for all legislators. Award winners in "biggest loser/best maintainer," "most inches lost" and "maintained excellent physical fitness" categories will be announced at the end of the challenge. Progress reports detailing the overall weights of legislators will be calculated to determine the winners. All individual weights will remain classified.

"This challenge will hopefully encourage others in the commonwealth to follow in the footsteps of those leading by example and strive for a healthier lifestyle," Pendleton said. "We also hope this will generate attention for some of Kentucky's troubling health issues."

Employees of Aaron McNeil House release balloons Tuesday, which was National Black HIV/AIDS Awareness Day and part of Black History Month.

Local charity urges HIV/AIDS testing

BY NICK TABOR
NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

A sick man came to Aaron McNeil House early this year, seeking food and help with his utility bills. He couldn't work because cancer and AIDS had weakened his body, said Kim Samples, a case manager at Aaron McNeil.

After the charity gave him food and financial help, the encounter troubled Samples. She wanted to make the community aware that people are suffering from diseases like this.

When Black History month approached, Samples looked for a related cause for which she could promote awareness. She discovered Tuesday was National Black HIV/AIDS Awareness Day.

On 25 slips of paper, she and other Aaron McNeil employees wrote messages urging people to get tested for HIV and AIDS. They put each one in a red balloon and filled the balloons with helium.

Tuesday afternoon, they released the balloons into the clear sky above the charity's yard in hope that, wherever the balloons land, someone will read the messages.

"I'm hoping at least one person picks up that balloon and says, 'I want to know my status,'" Samples said.

Samples fears most people in danger of contracting AIDS avoid getting tested because a stigma surrounds the disease. Every year, one or two people who come to Aaron McNeil openly admit to having HIV or AIDS, but Samples doesn't know how many more of the charity's clients suffer from these sicknesses.

The Center for Disease Control and Prevention, a division of the U.S. Department of Health and Family Services, reports that black people represented 14 percent of the U.S. population in 2009. However, they accounted for 44 percent of all new HIV infections that year.

About one in 16 black men will be diagnosed with HIV in their lifetimes, and one in 32 black women, the organization estimates.

The rate of new HIV infections for black men was more than six and a half times the rate for white men and two and a half times the rate for Latino men and black women, according to the organization's website.

Finally, a study shows one in five adults and adolescents who have HIV in this country don't know they have it, the organization reports.

The initiative for Black Aids Awareness Day started in 2000. The key element is encouraging black people to get tested for HIV: particularly those who are sexually active.

The messages in the Aaron McNeil balloons encourage their recipients to contact their local health departments about testing.

In addition to distributing food, the Aaron McNeil house provides funding for utilities, medication and mortgages.

It holds budgeting workshops and a "Jobs for Life" program through the YMCA. Its money comes from hundreds of community contributors.

Samples welcomes suggestions of other causes for which the charity could promote awareness.

Campbell soldiers clean up riverbank at Jeffers Bend

BY DENNIS O'NEIL
NEW ERA FEATURE WRITER

More than 50 Fort Campbell soldiers hacked and sawed their way through a riverbank full of brush Monday at Jeffers Bend Environmental Center and Botanical Gardens.

The soldiers, members of Delta Company with the 5th Battalion in the 101st Aviation Regiment, worked from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. clearing out tree limbs and branches.

The event was organized by 1st Lt. Jacob Veldhouse, who asked around the community a few months ago looking for a service project for the soldiers. He was contacted by Terry Rudd, who is on the steering committee at Jeffers Bend. Rudd spoke to Veldhouse about the brush along the riverbank — an impediment during events like the annual Take Kids Fishing Day — and asked about having the soldiers clear some of it away.

“We heard that and we said, ‘We’ll be more than happy to come and cut some wood for you,’” Veldhouse said.

Charles Turner, coordinator for the Pennyrile Resource, Conservation and Development program, said he was grateful for the soldiers’ work.

“This had to be done and if they weren’t doing it, it wouldn’t get done,” Turner said.

Veldhouse said their company and battalion are always looking for more ways to help the community.

“The communities are so nice to us so we like to get out and do some good stuff,” he said.

CDC: Fewer smokers go to the dentist

ATLANTA (AP) — Smokers not only have more problems with their teeth than non-smokers, they also go to the dentist less often.

Those are the findings of a new government survey, released Tuesday by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The CDC looked at 2008 survey responses from more than 16,000 adults ages 18 through 64.

More than a third of smokers reported having three or more dental problems, ranging from stained teeth to jaw pain, toothaches or infected gums. That was more than twice as much as people who never smoked.

But 20 percent of the smokers said they had not been to a dentist in at least five years. Only 10 percent of non-smokers and former smokers had stayed away that long, the study found.

Smokers seem to be aware their dental health is worse “but they’re not doing anything about it,” said Robin Cohen, a CDC statistician who co-authored the new report.

Why not? Half of the smokers said they could not afford to see a dentist, a much higher proportion than non-smoking adults who didn’t go.

The report did not provide data on income or health insurance. But another CDC survey found smoking rates are higher among those with low incomes — nearly 30 percent of Americans with incomes below the federal poverty level say they are current smokers, while fewer than 19 percent of people with higher incomes are smokers.

A 2000 Surgeon General’s report found that smoking can lead to poorer dental health by, for example, impairing the body’s ability to fight off infections in the mouth.

Tobacco use has also been associated with oral cancers.

Scavengers for literacy on hunt for good cause

The Christian County Library and Literacy Council deserves praise, not to mention the community's enthusiastic support, for the idea of staging Ready Reader Road Rally, a scavenger hunt that highlights local sites.

Christian County Historian William T. Turner is devising the clues and destinations that two-person teams will use to hunt down local points of interest. The $50 per team entry fee for the March 3 event might seem a bit hefty, but so are the prizes — $300 for first, $200 for second and $100 for third. And the purpose, of course, is to raise money and awareness for the council's support of the Hopkinsville-Christian County Public Library and reading programs communitywide.

The contestants will use mobile phones and digital cameras to capture an image at 12 checkpoints. And they'll use a passport to get a stamp at each point. We appreciate the literacy group's creative work to send team members to sites that have historical and cultural significance to local residents.

The scavenger hunt's ultimate goal is the support education through improved literacy. And that happens when a community values reading and provides an inviting, well run library for all of its citizens.

The National Assessment of Adult Literacy estimates that 14 percent of Americans are illiterate because they have extreme difficulty with reading and written comprehension. A study conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics found that 21 states had a higher rate than Kentucky of adults lacking basic literacy skills. We still have a way to go.

Christian County's literacy affects our economy and quality of life because it determines what types of jobs we are capable of performing. And there is no replacement for the joy of reading.

If you want to support one of our community's best causes, register by Feb. 15 for the scavenger hunt. You can call the library at 887-4263, ext. 6, for information. Team members who sign up by the deadline get a free T-shirt and scavenger bag. Then get to the library on March 3 and join the hunt.

Beshear wrong to defend cabinet's secrecy policies

BY TYLER GILL

Last week, an article appeared in several Kentucky newspapers authored by Gov. Steve Beshear. In it, he defended the idea of maintaining state secrecy about circumstances surrounding children who have died after citizens reported suspected child abuse to state officials. He said he is fighting alongside the Cabinet for Health and Family Services and its lawyers and seeks to justify the state's appeal of judicial rulings of the Franklin Circuit Court. In January, that court ordered the Cabinet to disclose information about cases where children died after complaints of child abuse were made to state authorities. I urge the Governor to reconsider his allegiance to the Cabinet on this issue and to see the bigger picture of what is in the best interest of the people of Kentucky.

The Governor argues that, if we make public the identities of those who reported child abuse before the children were killed, this will make people afraid to report child abuse. His article raises myriad concerns about negative consequences that will be suffered if we do not maintain secrecy in child abuse investigations and in legal actions to terminate parental rights. If we open these records, there would indeed be some negative consequences, and I agree with the Governor that the answer must ultimately come from the General Assembly and not the courts. The publicity surrounding recent tragic deaths of children in Kentucky, and the now public shenanigans of the Cabinet, caught lying about what it knew and when it knew it, have triggered a rare public anger.

The death of 9-year-old Amy Dye of Todd County has become a focal point of statewide anger about the senseless deaths of children and a symbol of state incompetence. People seem eager to find out what went wrong and want to fix the problem. They feel that the safety of children is at stake and secrecy stands in the way. As the Governor said in his article, some are arguing that the veil of secrecy surrounding the Cabinet should be stripped away. Some are even suggesting that the Cabinet be accountable for its actions.

Accountability and openness in government — what novel ideas!

Openness should always be the rule where government is involved and secrecy the rare and carefully considered exception to that rule. I have come to believe that secrecy in courts of law should be eliminated in every adversarial action initiated by any agency of the state. Non-adversarial actions, such as private uncontested adoptions or adoptions after parental rights have previously been terminated, should remain confidential.

My disagreement with the Governor arises from perspective and experience. I have been a circuit judge in Western Kentucky for 17 years. Before that, I was district judge. There is one circuit judge in Todd and Logan counties with no separate family court and so I handle all circuit level cases involving family conflict. Judges have a front-row seat to every variety of real-life struggle involving children and families in confidential cases initiated by the Cabinet. I am directly involved in the matters about which the Governor speaks and see firsthand the practical application of law to people.

In confidential cases, Cabinet lawyers can take action against the interest of the very citizens it is supposed to protect. The Cabinet is directed by statute to protect children, the mentally ill and the elderly. Over the years, I have observed an infrequent but persistent pattern of bizarre actions by lawyers and high-level officials employed by the Cabinet for Families and Children that occur almost exclusively in confidential cases such as juvenile cases, termination of parental rights and involuntarily hospitalizations. Secrecy allows people to do things in ways that they would not dare do in a public setting. For example, in 2008 one of the Cabinet's lawyers, with full knowledge of the Secretary of the Cabinet, intentionally fought to release a committed patient from a state psychiatric hospital even though the lawyer openly admitted that, in the opinion of the state's physicians, the patient was still likely to harm himself or another person upon release. The Cabinet lawyer argued in this secret court setting that the State owed no duty to protect the mentally ill person or to protect others he might harm when released.

This was done because the patient was troublesome to the state employees and hospital administrators who then put pressure on the Cabinet to get the patient out of the hospital. The lawyer admitted that she acted on behalf of the doctors and administrators of the state hospital. This is how the Cabinet protects citizens when secrecy prevails. This same Cabinet lawyer is one of the lawyers now working alongside the Governor to maintain Cabinet secrecy.

I have concluded that the Cabinet is consumed with a bureaucratic mentality and an institutional incompetence instilled by Cabinet leaders. Cabinet leadership is greatly influenced by a small group of senior Cabinet lawyers. Cabinet employees are directed to blindly follow its own internally created "guidelines" ignoring all else. The guidelines are to be followed whether or not they do so hurts children, the mentally ill, the elderly or the public. Reason, pleading, common sense, and sometimes not even a court order can dissuade a Cabinet supervisor from strictly following these guidelines. The Cabinet has become a law unto itself.

I have also come to believe that confidentiality imposed by our statutes is more often used to hide state incompetence or misconduct than to protect the citizens of Kentucky. Do not be misled. The Cabinet's appeal of the Franklin Circuit Court ruling is not a high-minded effort to protect the privacy of persons who report child abuse. It is to protect the Cabinet. While we can always find some downside to open government, the consequences of government secrecy are far worse. We need only look to the courts and governments of totalitarian regimes such as China, North Korea, Iran or Cuba for this lesson. Social workers are not the problem. Almost all of the social workers with whom I have worked over the years are good, hard-working people dedicated to helping others. Many are overworked and underpaid. Yet more social workers and more money will not solve the primary issues.

As for the Governor's concern that releasing the names of people who report child abuse will cause people to be afraid to report it, I believe that, in the long run, we will protect more children if we focus on getting the Cabinet to respond to the reports that are made.

Full disclosure is the only way the public can know whether reports of abuse have been ignored. The people of Todd County are painfully aware of the likelihood that a multitude of reports of suspected abuse were made by teachers and school officials about Amy Dye in the years before her death, several of which may have been mishandled or misplaced. I seriously doubt any of those who made reports would have allowed fear for their personal safety to keep them from speaking out. Their fear was for Amy.

Generally speaking, teachers and school officials who report child abuse are neither afraid for themselves nor ashamed of their actions. Fearful people have always, and will always, have the option to report suspected child abuse anonymously. I see no evidence that cowardice in reporting child abuse is a widespread problem.

Gov. Beshear is correct that the General Assembly should address these issues. I hope that the public outcry will continue and that its focus will be directed towards real issues and positive change. The Governor concluded his article by saying that he would continue to battle in court alongside the Cabinet and its lawyers. I urge Gov. Beshear to stop listening to the Cabinet's lawyers and to start battling for the people of Kentucky. Our children deserve an open and accountable government.

TYLER GILL is the circuit judge for Todd and Logan counties. He presided in the murder trial of Garrett Dye, who was convicted of killing his adopted sister, Amy Dye.

Presidential social prayer twists gospel

For 60 years the National Prayer Breakfast has been a nonpolitical event where speakers put aside their earthly biases and focus on a Higher Authority. Last Thursday, President Obama departed from that tradition to claim the endorsement of Jesus for raising taxes. It beat the endorsement for Mitt Romney by Donald Trump.

In his remarks, the president quoted Luke 12:48: "From everyone who has been given much, much will be demanded; and from the one who has been entrusted with much, much more will be asked." The president sees this verse as a command for him to raise taxes on the successful so the money can be "spread around" to the less successful. If the president's interpretation of this verse sounds a little like Karl Marx, it should. Marx said, "From each according to his ability, to each according to his need."

The president took a quote that was meant to mean something else and twisted it to serve his political ends. He took a verse out of context, created a pretext and then preached on politics. A conservative spinner might also wrongly use Matthew 13:12 to justify cutting taxes. That verse says: "Whoever has will be given more, and he will have an abundance."

Dr. Robert Norris, senior pastor of Fourth Presbyterian Church in Bethesda, Md., (where I attend) said in response to what I suggested to him was the president's flawed exegesis, "There is an accountability we have for all that we have been given. We are held personally responsible by God and not man for what is entrusted to us. The knowledge, abilities and resources we have come from Him and he holds us accountable for their use." The problem comes when government seeks to replace God and this was the attitude conveyed in the president's remarks.

The religious and even secular left commends religion when it suits their earthly agenda, but opposes religious instruction when it comes to issues such as abortion and same-sex marriage.

The absence of any editorials in major newspapers critical of the president's mixing of church and state and the virtual silence of activist groups like the ACLU and People for the American Way testifies to this point. Americans United for the Separation of Church and State criticized the prayer breakfast, but not the misinterpretation of Scripture, though it did say most of the president's remarks were "election-season boilerplate."

The president claimed Muslims, Jews and even secular sources like Plato also admonish us to have "consideration for others." True enough, but that isn't a mandate for government to be our primary keeper so we "shall not want."

The verse the president quoted, in context, differs from the spin he placed on it. True charity has a purpose beyond the satisfaction of physical needs. Its objective is to change hearts so that whatever is making someone poor will help them become less so. Meeting physical needs is the primary work of the church and individuals, not government, which changes no heart and does a poor job of making people self-sustaining. Government should be a last resort, not a first resource.

The social gospel is not new to this president. It is largely a creation of 20th-century Protestants who believed in applying "Christian principles" to rectify society's problems. Deeds quickly supplanted faith, evolving into a "works salvation" theology, which says if you do enough good works, God will be pleased and let you into Heaven when you die. This contradicts biblical teaching that it is by faith and not works that one is saved from judgment (Ephesians 2:8-9). Some verses teach works as an extension of faith, revealing its depth and seriousness, but they equally teach that works without faith in Jesus is not enough. This is traditional Christian theology. Accept it, or not, but the president is mistaken when he interprets Scripture to achieve his political goals.

Court: Calif. gay marriage ban is unconstitutional

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal appeals court on Tuesday declared California's same-sex marriage ban unconstitutional but agreed to give sponsors of the bitterly contested, voter-approved law time to appeal the ruling before ordering the state to resume allowing gay couples to wed.

The three-judge panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled 2-1 that a lower court judge correctly interpreted the U.S. Constitution and Supreme Court precedents when he declared in 2010 that Proposition 8 — a response to an earlier state court decision that legalized gay marriage — was a violation of the civil rights of gays and lesbians.

"Proposition 8 serves no purpose, and has no effect, other than to lessen the status and human dignity of gays and lesbians in California, and to officially reclassify their relationships and families as inferior to those of opposite-sex couples," states the opinion written by Judge Stephen Reinhardt, one of the court's most liberal judges.

However, the appeals panel took pains to note that its decision applies only to California, even though the court has jurisdiction in nine western states. California is the only one of those states where the ability for gays to marry was granted then rescinded, the court noted in its narrowly crafted opinion.

"Whether under the Constitution same-sex couples may ever be denied the right to marry, a right that has long been enjoyed by opposite-sex couples, is an important and highly controversial question," the court said. "We need not and do not answer the broader question in this case."

The ruling will not take effect until the deadline passes for Proposition 8's backers to appeal to a larger panel of the 9th Circuit. Lawyers for the coalition of conservative religious groups that sponsored the measure said they have not decided if they will seek a 9th Circuit rehearing or file an appeal directly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"We are not surprised that this Hollywood-orchestrated attack on marriage — tried in San Francisco — turned out this way. But we are confident that the expressed will of the American people in favor of marriage will be upheld at the Supreme Court," said Brian Raum, senior counsel for the Alliance Defense Fund, a Christian legal aid group based in Arizona that helped defend Proposition 8.

One legal analyst said the U.S. Supreme Court might not agree to take up the case on appeal because the appeals court focused its decision exclusively on California's ban.

"The ruling is on the narrowest ground possible," said University of Santa Clara constitutional law professor Margaret Russell.

Supporters of gay marriage praised the ruling as historic.

"The message it sends to young LGBT people, not only here in California but across the country, (is) that you can't strip away a fundamental right," said Chad Griffin, president of the American Foundation for Equal Rights. He formed the group with director Rob Reiner to wage the court fight against Proposition 8.

WORK. WHEEL &amp; CO. - HOPKINSVILLE LLP <small>CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS BUSINESS CONSULTANTS</small> To the Honorable Mayor and City Council City of Hopkinsville, Kentucky
We have audited the accompanying financial statements of the governmental activities, the business-type activities, the aggregate discretely presented component units, each major fund, and the aggregate remaining fund information of the City of Hopkinsville, Kentucky (the "City"), as of and for the year ended June 30, 2011, which collectively comprise the City's basic financial statements as listed in the table of contents. These financial statements are the responsibility of the City's management. Our responsibility is to express opinions on these financial statements based on our audit.
We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and the significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinions.
In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the respective financial position of the governmental activities, the business-type activities, the aggregate discretely presented component units, each major fund, and the aggregate remaining fund information of the City, as of June 30, 2011, and the respective changes in financial position and cash flows, where applicable, thereof for the year then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.
In accordance with Government Auditing Standards , we have also issued our report dated January 30, 2012, on our consideration of the City's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be conSidered in assessing the results of our audit.
Accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America require that the management's discussion and analysis, pension schedule, and budgetary comparison information be presented to supplement the basic financial statements. Such information, although not a part of the basic financial statements, is required by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, who considers it to be an essential part of financial reporting for placing the basic financial statements in an appropriate operational, economic, or historic content. We have applied certain limited procedures to the required supplementary information in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which consisted of inquiries of management about the methods of preparing the information and comparing the information for consistency with management's responses to our inquiries, the basic financial statements, and other knowledge we obtained during our audit of the basic financial statements. We do not express an opinion or provide any assurance on the information because the limited procedures do not provide us with sufficient evidence to express an opinion or provide any assurance.
Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming opinions on the financial statements that collectively comprise the City of Hopkinsville, Kentucky's financial statements as a whole. The combining nonmajor fund financial statements are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the financial statements. The accompanying schedule of expenditures of federal awards is presented for purposes of additional analysis as required by U.S. Office of Management and Budget Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, and is also not a required part of the financial statements. The combining nonmajor fund financial statements and the schedule of expenditures of federal awards are the responsibility of management and were derived from and relate directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the financial statements. The information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the financial statements and certain additional procedures, including comparing and reconciling such information directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the financial statements or to the financial statements themselves, and other additional procedures in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. In our opinion, the information is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

This year you unravel a long-term issue by remaining gentle and caring. Others feel safer with you, no matter what type of relationship you have. Openness nearly becomes a way of life. If you are single, you might see a change in a major relationship, waving on more of what you want. If you are attached, don't test your sweetie's patience. Let him or her have his or her way more often. VIRGO understands you perhaps far too well.

A baby born today has a Sun in Aquarius and a Moon in Virgo if born after 9:32 a.m. (PST). Before then the Moon is in Leo.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★★ Of course effort counts, but having some charisma on your side can only help. Show your concern as well when dealing with an associate who might not be doing what you want. Listen to your sixth sense with a friend. You might not be completely right, but you have a strong sense of direction. Tonight: As you like.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★★ The only mistake you can make is holding yourself back. You know what works well for you. Let your imagination come forward. The ideas that follow — yours and others' — are quite unusual. Do test them out. Romance could get spicy. Tonight: Some matters are best kept a secret.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ Understand what is happening within your immediate domestic circle. You hear news that doesn't feel quite complete. You don't need to comment — the less said the more that will come forward. Tonight: Vanish while you can.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★★ Keep conversations moving, and realize where you want to go with a situation. Others might not be as grounded as you would like. You might have to go over certain points, not once, but several times. Stay centered, if possible. Tonight: Meet up with a friend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★★ Curb a need to be possessive or to overspend. You will be a lot happier if you use some self-discipline. Detach and try to understand where another person is coming from. Tonight: Relax with friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★★ The way you perk up in another person's company makes this person feel great. Relating to another person as well takes you to a new level of mutuality. Discuss a long-term desire. You could be delighted by the end results. Tonight: Make sure a favorite piece of music is on.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★ You might want to express a certain amount of consternation about a situation but then decide otherwise. Others don't appear to be receptive to a conversation of this nature, or of any nature, for that matter. Tonight: Be yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★★ A meeting helps you realize just what is needed to have a situation manifest as you might like. You have a lot of fun within this group or with a key person. Someone makes you an offer that you barely can say no to. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★ Your softer side emerges with a child or loved one. You express your dynamic energy and upbeat manner in a conversation. When you hear a vague statement, try to build on it. You find an associate upbeat and cooperative. Seize the moment. Tonight: Highly visible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★★ Keep reaching out for others. Share an unusually mellow mood. Some of you might opt to stay close to home. Use care with your finances, as a mistake can happen all too easily, especially in the next few weeks. Recognize your limitations while honoring who you are. Your creativity and confidence grow. Tonight: Touch base with a loved one at a distance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ Remain sensitive to a partner or associate. Relate one-on-one with key people if you want to make an impact. Keep reaching out for someone at a distance who might be closed off. You cannot change this person, but you can encourage him or her to look at his or her behavior. Tonight: Visit over a meal.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★★ Let others show their hand. You might wonder which is the best way to handle a key issue. Listen to opinions. If you don't feel comfortable with what you hear, hold off on making a decision. Find a respected adviser first. Tonight: The only answer is yes.

Stepkids sing, 'Happy birthday to — who?'

DEAR AMY: Seven years ago I married a widowed man who has three children (all married), nine grandchildren and a great-granddaughter. They all live in another state.

I've made it a point to recognize them on their birthdays (or have asked my husband to help with the recognition). When we were first married, I sent substantial cash gifts for birthdays and anniversaries. This stopped after a few years when the children didn't recognize our anniversary. The birthday gifts were replaced by only cards one year, last year were gifts again, and now this year I'm only sending cards.

My birthday is one day after his eldest son's birthday. My birthday goes unrecognized by my husband's children and grandchildren. My husband refuses to support my requests to have my birthday recognized.

Last year I sent monthly postcards to the grandchildren (from both of us) and on the month of my birthday I wrote on the postcard, "I have a birthday this month!" Still nothing.

My husband says, "Don't let it bother you," but it does. Any suggestions for handling this?

— Upset
DEAR UPSET: Like you, I think birthdays are important because when people remember your birthday they are basically saying, "I'm glad you were born."

But you know what? Your husband's family members don't seem to feel that way. Either that, or they are explicitly sending you a negative message.

Your status here will not change as long as your husband doesn't back you up (it might not change even if he does back you up).

Anything you send should not be for the purpose of reciprocation, but because it is what you want to do.

Keep in touch if you want (I love the idea of monthly postcards to the grandkids) but don't have this contact be from you and your husband — only from you. And stop if it feels so unbalanced that you feel foolish.

ASK AMY

AMY
DICKINSON

Ask God to guide you to a church that will nurture your faith

DEAR REV. GRAHAM: I decided I needed to start going to church, but I ended up in a church with lots of problems, and I've given up on religion. If Christians can't get along with each other, why should I become one? — M.B.

DEAR M.B.: Let me ask you a question: If you ate at a certain restaurant and discovered the food wasn't very good, would you never go to a restaurant again? No, of course not.

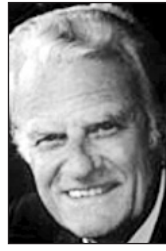

Don't turn your back on God just because you had a bad experience with one particular church. Admittedly, no church is perfect; as someone has said, if you ever find a perfect church, it'll cease to be perfect the minute you join it! But it would be wrong for you to assume all churches are like the one you experienced for they aren't.

The real issue, however, is this: What will you do with Jesus Christ? The Bible says our real problem can be summed up in one word: sin. Sin not only makes us do wrong, but it cuts us off from God and subjects us to His judgment.

FUN DIP

A hot pink drink to set Valentine's Day mood

(AP) — This Valentine's Day cocktail sports a risqué name, is easy on the eyes and drinks like candy.

Even guys will be reaching for this admittedly feminine cocktail. Its flavors are slightly sweet and tangy, much like a glass of pink lemonade. Except that this pink lemonade happens to be powered by vodka, gin and raspberry liqueur.

X-rated isn't just a movie classification. It also is the name of a hot pink liqueur made from vodka infused with passion fruit, blood orange and mango. Another easy use for this alcohol is to simply mix it with seltzer water or ginger beer for a refreshing and bubbly spritzer.

X-rated kiss

Start to finish: 10 minutes

Servings: 2

2 ounces raspberry liqueur

Ice

1 ounce lime juice

3 ounces X-Rated Fusion Liqueur

1 ounce gin

Pinch of crushed pink peppercorns

Edible flower petals, to garnish

Divide the raspberry liqueur between 2 martini glasses.

In a cocktail shaker filled with ice, combine the lime juice, X-Rated, gin and pink peppercorns. Shake vigorously, then strain and divide between the glasses, pouring it carefully down the sides of the glasses. Garnish with edible flower petals.

'LOVE'LY RECIPE

Seafood Augratin

Some grocers and seafood markets sell frozen lobster meat. That's the easiest way to get it for this dish. Alternatively, ask for a 1 1/4-pound lobster at the grocer and have them steam it for you while you shop. That size lobster should produce about 4 ounces of cooked meat.

Start to finish: 45 minutes

Servings: 2

1 tablespoon olive oil

1 small sweet potato, peeled and grated (about 2 cups)

1/4 cup grated yellow onion

2 teaspoons chopped fresh thyme

Salt and ground black pepper

3 ounces haddock or other white fish

4 ounces cooked lobster meat (about a 1 1/4-pound lobster)

4 ounces raw shrimp, peeled and deveined

4 ounces bay scallops

1/2 cup heavy cream

1/3 cup panko bread-crumbs

1/4 teaspoon smoked paprika

1 tablespoon butter, melted

Heat the oven to 375 F. Place 2 shallow ramekins or gratin dishes on a sheet pan and lightly coat with cooking spray.

In a small saute pan over medium, heat the olive oil. Add the grated sweet potato and onion. Cook until tender, about 7 to 8 minutes. Stir in the thyme and season with salt and black pepper. Divide the mixture between the 2 baking dishes, spreading it evenly across the bottom.

Cut up the fish and lobster into bite sized pieces. Arrange the fish, lobster, shrimp and scallops over the sweet potato mixture. Sprinkle with salt and pour the cream over the seafood.

In a small bowl, combine the panko, paprika and a pinch of salt. Pour the butter over the mixture and toss to coat. Sprinkle the panko mixture over the seafood. Bake until the cream is bubbling, about 12 to 15 minutes. Let cool slightly before serving.

Locals revisit fondue-making

PHOTOS AND STORY BY DENNIS O'NEIL
NEW ERA FEATURE WRITER

Sixties cuisine had a revival last Tuesday as the Christian County Cooperative Extension Office offered a workshop on making fondue.

More than 40 ladies attended the workshop, which was taught by Cecilia Hostilo, extension agent for family and consumer sciences in Trigg County. Hostilo shared information about different types of fondue and did a cooking demonstration for the class.

Marsha Parker, family and consumer sciences agent for Christian County, cooked several types of fondue during the class for participants to taste test. The extension office offers a new workshop each month focusing on a particular topic. Some of the workshops focus on food and are attended by representatives from local homemaker groups.

Parker said homemakers who attend often take what they learn back to their groups and teach other members. Many of the homemakers requested a fondue workshop, she said.

Hostilo shared some fondue history during the workshop; it originated in Switzerland in the 1600s.

During Switzerland's brutal winters, Hostilo said, many families would survive on little more than bread and cheese. When the cheese would harden, some families would melt it and spread it across the bread.

"They found it made the cheese taste better and softened up the bread," she said.

Fondue later became Switzerland's national dish and evolved to include chocolate, strawberry and vegetable-based sauces. In addition to bread, dipping foods now include sausage, chicken, asparagus spears and apple slices.

Fondue was popular in the U.S. during the '60s and '70s, Hostilo said, and has seen a revival the past few years thanks to national chain restaurants like the Melting Pot.

Hostilo also shared bits of fondue etiquette; those partaking, she said, should never double-dip or eat with their fingers and should be careful not to lose their food in the pot. Tradition dictates that if a woman loses her food in the pot, she has to kiss the person next to her.

"Be careful who you are sitting next to," Hostilo told the class.

Hostilo said she didn't have much fondue when she was younger, but has started exploring it more as it has regained popularity the past few years.

"It's a hot topic right now," she said. "It is kind of the hip thing to do. It's not your run-of-the-mill cooking technique."

At the conclusion of the workshop, attendees (left) helped themselves to a few different types of fondue. Fondue became Switzerland's national dish and evolved from just cheese to include chocolate, strawberry and vegetable-based sauces.

Austin Peay picked to win baseball title

Austin Peay State University's baseball team was named the preseason favorite to win the Ohio Valley Conference in the league's preseason poll released Tuesday. The Governors received seven of nine possible first-place votes in the poll and received 79 points. Jacksonville State was given a second-place nod with 73 points and one first-place vote. Tennessee Tech was picked third with 63 points and the remaining two first-place votes.

Southeast Missouri State (52), SIU-Edwardsville (48), Eastern Kentucky (45), Eastern Illinois (34), UT-Martin (25), Murray State (21) and Morehead State (10) round out the poll. Austin Peay opens its 2012 season Feb. 17 against Illinois State in Clarksville, Tenn.

Memphis could join Big East Conference

(AP) — A person familiar with the talks says the Big East is in discussions with Memphis about the Tigers joining the conference in all sports. The Tigers likely would join in 2013 when Houston, Central Florida and SMU from Conference USA already are set to join the Big East. The person spoke on the condition of anonymity Tuesday because talks were ongoing between Memphis and the Big East. CBSSports.com first reported the talks and said a deal could be announced later this week.

Tennessee Titans officials say they will not try and sign former University of Tennessee star and Indianapolis Colts quarterback Peyton Manning during the offseason.

Titans happy with QBs

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Titans new general manager says the team is in good hands with the quarterbacks they have.

Ruston Webster understands why some Volunteer fans want Peyton Manning to continue his NFL career in the state where he played in college. With Manning's future in doubt due to neck surgery and a $28 million bonus due from the Colts in March, some fans put together a website and solicited money for billboards in Indianapolis imploring the quarterback to return.

But the Titans tried to downplay the Manning talk Tuesday in a conference call with season-ticket holders as Webster addressed the topic before taking questions. Webster called Manning a great player in the NFL and noted he was under contract with another team. "We also feel like we're in good hands," Webster said.

The Titans signed Matt Hasselbeck to a three-year deal worth more than $20 million last July, and he led them to a 9-7 record. Webster said Hasselbeck brought the Titans through a tough time after losing top receiver Kenny Britt. Hasselbeck threw for 3,571 yards, the most by a Tennessee quarterback since 2002.

Jake Locker played well enough in relief to make the Titans happy they used the eighth pick overall in 2011 on the quarterback. Locker threw for four touchdowns with no interceptions and a 99.4 passer rating coming off the bench in relief of Hasselbeck during the season.

Coach Mike Munchak already has said Hasselbeck and Locker will compete to be the starter in 2012.

"He showed enough during the season to warrant a chance to win the job, and he'll have a good shot to do that," Webster said of Locker.

"Very talented player, he brings a lot of excitement to the game, and so we are as excited as you are about seeing him out there. It'll be a good competition. It won't just be Matt's job or anything like that, and Matt knows that. The best man will win."

Webster said the Titans are in good shape with about $35 million in salary cap space, but he intends to address the offensive line among other positions as they fix a running game ranked 31st in the NFL in 2011. The defensive line and linebacking corps also are due for upgrades after Tennessee had only 28 sacks in 2011.

The Titans will pick No. 20 overall in the first round of the draft in April, and defense could be the big focus.

Pierce passes Bird on Celtics' list

BOSTON (AP) — Paul Pierce passed Larry Bird for No. 2 on the Celtics' career scoring list, finishing with 15 points as Boston increased its winning streak to five with a 94-84 victory over the Charlotte Bobcats on Tuesday night.

Pierce needed nine points to tie Bird's total of 21,791. He had seven points at halftime, then hit a 3-pointer with 10:23 left in the third quarter to pass Bird. Pierce nearly celebrated the milestone with a triple-double, coming up just short with nine assists and eight rebounds.

Rajon Rondo added 14 assists and 10 points, Kevin Garnett scored 22 and Ray Allen finished with 17 points.

Reggie Williams scored 21 for the Bobcats, who lost their 12th straight despite staying within 11 points through the first three quarters.

■Heat 107, Cavaliers 91: In Miami, Dwyane Wade scored 26 points, LeBron James added 24 against his former team and the Miami Heat tuned up for a long road trip by beating the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Chris Bosh finished with 15 points for the Heat, who have won 11 of their last 13 games. Mario Chalmers and Udonis Haslem each scored 14 for Miami, which starts a stretch of five road games in seven nights at Orlando on Wednesday, then caps the trip with a visit to Cleveland on Feb. 17.

■Suns 107, Bucks 105: In Milwaukee, Steve Nash hit a driving layup with 5 seconds left, giving the Phoenix Suns a victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

■Timberwolves 86, Kings 84: In Minneapolis, Nikola Pekovic had 23 points and 10 rebounds, and Michael Beasley added 17 points and 14 boards to lead the Minnesota Timberwolves over the Sacramento Kings in their first game without the suspended Kevin Love.

Former Kentucky star DeMarcus Cousins had 10 points and 11 rebounds while battling foul trouble for most of the game.

■Pacers 104, Jazz 99: In Indianapolis, Danny Granger scored 12 of his 16 points in the fourth quarter and Darren Collison had 25 points to lead the Indiana Pacers past the Utah Jazz.

Darren Collison shot 10 of 14 from the floor, and added five assists.

Paul Millsap had 18 points and 10 rebounds for the Jazz.

Louisville rolls past UConn

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Gorgui Dieng returned from a sprained right ankle to score 15 points and freshman Chane Behanan added 12 rebounds as No. 24 Louisville beat Connecticut 80-59 on Monday night, the Cardinals' fifth straight win.

Louisville (19-5, 7-4) is quickly ascending the Big East standings after a rough start. While most of the 31 credential NBA personnel were scouting the Huskies, it was the Cardinals who outworked them all evening.

Dieng was questionable after Saturday's injury in a win over Rutgers, but he clogged up the lane and kept Connecticut freshman Andre Drummond in check. Freshman Ryan Boatright led the Huskies (15-8, 5-6) with 18 points. Drummond went scoreless, missing all six shots, and Jeremy Lamb finished with seven points, well short of his average of 17.6.

Connecticut coach Jim Calhoun missed his second game on an indefinite medical leave of absence after he was diagnosed with spinal stenosis.

Everyone contributed as Louisville looked similar to the team ranked fourth in the nation at 12-0 and nothing like the one that dropped five out of seven to tumble out of the poll three weeks ago.

Chris Smith scored 16 points, Kyle Kuric added 10 and Peyton Siva had nine assists while Behanan again made a mark coming off a 23-point, 11-rebound performance in a win over the Scarlet Knights.

Dieng appeared to have some early problems with his ankle, but was a key contributor in the Cardinals' decisive 21-4 run that gave them a 65-36 lead with 6:18 left.

Siva's 3-pointer made it 49-32 with just over 9 1/2 minutes to play as the Huskies called a timeout. It didn't help.

Drummond missed a layup and Dieng's long outlet pass went to Siva, who feathered a touch pass to Jared Swopshire for a layup.

On the next possession, Swopshire intercepted a pass to start a four-on-one. Dieng couldn't convert the dunk, but grabbed his own rebound and finished it on the second try.

Lamb made a jumper to momentarily slow Louisville, but Swopshire hit a 3 and Siva was off and running again, cutting across the lane and finding Kuric, who finished with a one-handed slam that put the Cardinals ahead 58-34.

Connecticut called for another timeout as Siva ran to midcourt and spread his arms after Kuric's dunk. Behanan grabbed the frenetic point guard and carried him all the way to the bench. The Cardinals led by as many as 30 points in the closing minutes.

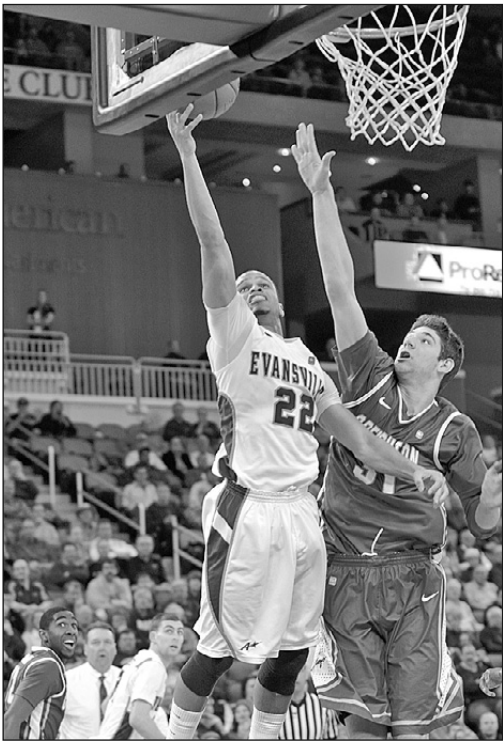

Assistant coach George Blaney ran the Huskies because of Calhoun's back problems. He fell to 3-2 in the games he's coached this season. Alex Oriakhi scored 11 points and Roscoe Smith added 10 for the Huskies.

Behanan set the tone in the second half, getting inside position for an offensive rebound and putback on the first play. After Boatright missed a 3, Behanan hit one that gave the Cardinals their first 10-point lead, 34-24, just over a minute into the second half.

It was only Behanan's fifth 3-pointer in 29 attempts this season.

■Belmont 94, Austin Peay 55: In Nashville, Tenn., Austin Peay committed 21 turnovers and shot 16.7 percent from three-point range in losing to Belmont Monday night.

Former Heritage Christian Academy star John Fraley had 10 points and six rebounds for Austin Peay (7-19). Former University Heights Academy star TyShwan Edmondson failed to score in 20 minutes of action.

Evansville upsets No. 17 Creighton

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Colt Ryan gave Evansville the lead for good by making a 17-footer with 3:08 to play and the Purple Aces closed the game on a 13-1 run to beat No. 17 Creighton 65-57.

The nation's best shooting team was out of sync all night and wound up losing a second straight game for the first time this season. Creighton (21-4, 11-3 Missouri Valley Conference) was led by Doug McDermott with 21 points.

Kenny Harris scored 15 points to lead Evansville (12-12, 7-7), which ended a six-game losing streak against the Bluejays. The Purple Aces limited Creighton to 40.4 percent shooting from the field, including 4 of 22 on 3-pointers, and didn't trail until early in the second half.

■Ohio State 87, Purdue 84: In Columbus, Ohio, William Buford scored a career-high 29 points and capped his night with a pivotal dunk in the final minute to power No. 3 Ohio State past hot-shooting Purdue 87-84 on Tuesday night.

The win was Ohio State's 40th in a row at home — since losing to Purdue two years ago at Value City Arena.

Buford scored 21 points in the second half to carry the Buckeyes (21-3, 9-2 Big Ten) while All-America Jared Sullinger and point guard Aaron Craft were on the bench with foul trouble. He scored seven straight points as Ohio State took the lead for good.

UK: Kidd-Gilchrist leads Wildcats to win

Doron Lamb scored 18 points and freshman Anthony Davis added 16 for Kentucky, which won its 16th straight overall and ended Florida's run of seven consecutive wins.

Kenny Boynton led the Gators (19-5, 7-2) with 18 points, but the team with the nation's most 3-pointers this season went 6 of 27 from behind the arc and shot 34.9 percent overall from the field.

One of the last remaining questions for a team that continues to believe it can play for a national championship in just under two months had been the quality of opponents the Wildcats had faced after not meeting a ranked team in over a month.

Kentucky answered it emphatically. Freshman point guard Marquis Teague finished with 12 points and 10 assists as the Wildcats attacked on both ends.

Florida scored the first two baskets of the second half to cut it to 38-30, but Kentucky answered

Soldo, Hopkinsville edge Lady Blazers

Hopkinsville guard J'Lynn Majors (center) is pressured by University Heights Academy guards DeNayia Holmes (10) and Kiki Smith Tuesday at Blazer Gym.

It came down to which team could make its free throws down the stretch. Hopkinsville could and University Heights Academy could not.

The Lady Blazers shot just 36 percent (8-for-22) from the foul line, and the Lady Tigers turned a 38-35 lead at the end of the third quarter into a 52-41 win in their District 8 girls' basketball game Tuesday night at Blazer Gym.

"That's the story," UHA coach Taylor Sparks said of his team's lackluster performance from the charity stripe. "When you're playing and you're not playing extremely well, you get free throws along the way and that helps you from keep getting down."

While Hopkinsville (22-4, 6-0) secured the No. 1 seed in the upcoming district tournament last week with a win over Christian County (11-13, 3-3), the Lady Blazers (18-4, 3-3) and the Lady Colonels will flip a coin for the No. 2 seed during the district meeting later this week at Christian County High School.

Christy Soldo led all scorers with 19 points to pace the Lady Tigers to their fifth straight win. Hopkinsville coach Tonya Wells said it wasn't the prettiest of victories but she'll take it.

"To me, it builds character in your team when you don't have your best night, you don't play well, and then you're able to grind it out," Wells said. "Sometimes you have to do that."

After the game remained tied at 10 at the end of the first quarter, the Lady Tigers opened the second quarter on a 5-0 run to create 15-10 cushion. UHA freshman DeNayia Holmes, who scored 12, countered with back-to-back 3-pointers to give the Lady Blazers a 16-15 lead with 4:38 to go before halftime.

Soldo put the Lady Tigers back up on the next possession and Hopkinsville surged to a 26-18 advantage at halftime.

With Kiki Smith, who finished with a team-high 13 points, and Dannika Prater, who added 10, carrying much of the offensive load in the third, the Lady Blazers cut Hopkinsville's lead to one on two separate occasions but were never able to pull ahead.

"We take away from this the fact that we think we have the combination," Sparks said. "If we hit our shots (and) if we hit our free throws, we're just right there with what I call the best team in the region or at best in the top two."

Bailey inducted into HOF

BY JOE WILSON
NEW ERA SPORTS EDITOR

Former Christian County High School baseball star and athletic director Geoff Bailey has been enshrined in his his college's athletic hall of honor.

Bailey, who played baseball for Beloit (Wisc.) College from 1992-96, was honored at a ceremony Saturday night in Beloit, Wisc.

"It is a great honor," said Bailey, who now serves as principal at Grapevine Elementary School in Hopkins County. "As an all-conference player I was privileged to go to the Hall of Honor ceremonies and I always dreamed of one day being inducted. I'm just very humbled to be part of that."

A four-time All-Midwest Conference selection and three-time Pitcher of the Year, Bailey's records still dot the Beloit books. He is the all-time victories leader with 22 and shares the innings-pitched mark of 219.1. In 39 career appearances, he struck out 152 batters, with both numbers ranking third on the career list.

During his senior season at Beloit, Bailey won seven games, the most at the time, while pitching 62.1 innings and recording a miniscule 1.46 ERA.

Bailey also combined to pitch the first no-hitter in Beloit history, shutting down Knox.

"I was just a Division-III athlete playing for the love of the game," Bailey told the Kentucky New Era in a telephone interview Tuesday. "I knew I wasn't going to make a living at it, but I was playing with other guys who also were playing for the love of the game. That made it special. We were student athletes first."
